Biographical information/Organizational history:

Lisa Ornstein served as the director of the Acadian Archives/Archives acadiennes at the University of Maine at Fort Kent from 1991 until 2007. In 1991, Ornstein was a fieldworker on the Maine Acadian Culture Survey project, funded by the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress. For this project, she interviewed Saint John Valley residents, gathered research materials, and helped to compile a report that was then presented to the National Park Service. The report recommended the development of a Maine Acadian Cultural Center.

Scope and content:

This collection consists of Lisa Ornstein's research materials, fieldwork notes, project guides, and drafts of the final project report, as well as correspondence between Ornstein and other project contributors. While some of the materials duplicate those in the Maine Acadian Culture Survey collection (MCC-0006), the materials in this collection include original notes and other materials. The collection also provides a thorough look into the fieldworker component of the project.

The papers were originally in a three-ring binder with dividers. The original order and divider titles have been preserved in the foldering of this collection.
