Organizational history:

The Land in Between: The Upper Saint John Valley, Prehistory to World War I was written by Beatrice Craig and Maxime Dagenais, with the collaboration of Lisa Ornstein and Guy Dubay. This book, published by Tilbury House Publishers in Gardiner, Maine with the Acadian National Park, Saint Croix Island International Historic Site, and the Maine Acadian Heritage Council, concerns the Saint John Valley, described as "the land in between," as it straddles the Maine-New Brunswick border. It is a "narrative survey history of this fascinating and unique region and is also designated to serve as a reference for teachers, librarians, archivists, and historians." (description from the publisher's website: <http://www.tilburyhouse.com/maine-and-new-england/the-land-in-between.htm>)
