Biographical Sketch. Theodore "Ted" Roosevelt Brown was born 19 February 1906 in Eagle Lake, Maine, the son of John Mitchell Brown and Flavie Pinette. His father was a self-educated man who worked in an number of capacities including notary, judge, surveyor, and town manager.

Theodore Brown graduated from Fort Kent High School and took courses at the Madawaska Training School. In the 1920's and 1930's, he performed semi-professionally as a banjo player in a dance band called the Swanee Serenaders and helped his father with his accounting and surveying businesses. He also worked as a substitute teacher at Eagle Lake Elementary School;

In 1940, Brown married Katherine Burns, of Eagle Lake, a teacher at Eagle Lake Elementary School. In 1941, the Browns moved to Augusta where Mr. Brown worked as a state police dispatcher. In 1942, the relocated to Cottage Siding (in the St. John, Maine area) where Mr. Brown kept books for local mill owner Buddy England. The following spring, Mr. Brown and his family moved to Plaisted, Maine, and he began keeping books for Great Northern Paper Company.

By the end of the 1940s, Mr. Brown had taken up surveying as a part-time profession, using equipment which he inherited from his father. Eventually, he set up a fulltime work schedule of summertime surveying and wintertime accounting. His sons John and Philip sometimes helped him with his survey work.

Theodore Brown retired from surveying in the 1960s. He died in Portland, Maine, 5 July 1981. (Source: telephone interview with Mr. Brown's widow, Katherine Brown, 7 July 1995). Scope and Content Notes. This collection consists of 63 surveys maps of northern Maine prepared by, copied by, or collected by Theodore Roosevelt Brown, surveyor from Eagle Lake, Maine. The maps range in date from 1917 to 1976. Maine townships covered: Ashland, Eagle Lake, Fort Kent, Frenchville, Grand Isle, Madawaska, New Canada, Portage, St. Agatha, Sinclair, Van Buren, Wallagrass, Winterville, T17R4 and T17R5.

This collection includes originals or copies signed by Brown (or by Brown and others) and 19 unsigned maps. The remaining 17 maps are signed by a variety of map makers and/or signatories: Theodule Albert (#54), Eugene Bouchard (#26) Henry W. Cunningham (#50), John W. Dana (#50), Philip Eastman (#50), John T. Emmerson (#30, 33, 48, 59), Maurice Michaud (#18, 57), H. J. Pelletier (#55), P. R. Picard (#27), A. H. Rheinlander (#56), Earnest T. Savage (#7), E. P. Sinclair (#9, 61), J. R. Sinclair (#1, 20, 27, 59, and 60), William Sankey (#1), and Claude J. Violette (#46).

The Theodore Roosevelt Brown Map Collection provides information about 20th century cartography and cultural geography in the upper St. John Valley.

History of the Arrangement and Storage of this Collection. 88 maps were delivered to the Archives by Theodore Brown's son, John Brown. They arrived in seven non-archival cardboard tubes. In the process of making a preliminary inventory of the maps in their original order, it became clear that a number of the maps were duplicates. After querying colleagues on the subject of handling of duplicate maps, Archives staff determined that it was appropriate to cull out identical copies. On 20 November, 1993, the Archives director phoned and received permission from the collection donor to discard or otherwise dispose of duplicate maps. The following duplicate maps were culled from the collection (numbering corresponds to tube/item as listed in the original inventory):

1/3, 1/4 1/5 (diazos duplicates of 1/1)

2/12 through 2/21 (diazos duplicates of 2/10)

3/47 (diazos duplicate of 4/46)

4/52 (diazos duplicate of 4/50)

4/52 (diazos duplicate of 4/55)

4/58, 4/59 (diazos duplicates of 4/57)

5/65 (diazos duplicate of 4/48)

5/68 (diazos duplicate of 5/67)

5/69, 5/70, 5/71 (diazos duplicates of 5/60)

5/72 (diazos duplicate of 4/50)

7/77 (duplicate of 7/76)

Total number of maps culled: 25

Archives staff determined in collaboration with the collection donor that the original order of the maps no longer existed at the time of their donation to the Archives. Consequently, the Archives staff decided to revise the ordering of the remaining 63 maps.

Because the collection includes a variety of paper types requiring different storage treatments, the staff decided to make a primary sort of the maps based on their physical support. This sort resulted in three groups: 46 maps on relatively stable supports (including 2 maps too large for the map case), 12 diazo prints, and 5 blueprints. Stable maps are in folders 1-5, the diazo maps are in folders 6-7, the blueprints are in folder 8, and the oversize maps are stored in map tubes.

Staff chose as a secondary ordering principle geographical divisions, using Maine's official Standard and Geographic Code as a general guide. (This code appears on page 4 of the Maine Atlas and Gazetteer, 1989 printing). Each of the three groups of maps is arranged by the geographical location. Maps including more than one civil division are classified by the township covering the largest area on the map.

Finally, staff arranged maps within each folder from smallest on top to largest on bottom. This ordering is intended to help minimize handling of the maps and to optimize the visibility of shelf list numbers. Sorting by size necessarily resulted in occasional minor disturbances of the geographical sort within folders.
