How to Use this Guide

You may wish to begin by reading the Introduction (p. 4), which gives an overview of the collection. For quick reference, see the Table of Contents (p. 2).

The Craig collection is fairly large (761 items) and covers a variety of subject matter. To help you find your way, we have provided three levels of description:

- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| - Scope and Content Notes (p. 5) | brief, overall description. |
| - Series Description (pp. 5-6) | description of major subject areas. |
| - Item-Level Inventory (pp. 7-32) | detailed description of each item. |

We recommend that you begin by looking at the Scope and Content Notes for a sense of the collection as a whole. Then carefully read the Series Descriptions before consulting the Item-Level Inventory.

When you have determined the items you wish to consult, simply fill out a Request for the Use of Archives form, including folder numbers, and bring the form to a staff person. Please make sure that you consult the Access to the Collection of this guide (p. 4), which identifies restrictions and proper citations for using this collection.

While consulting the collection, we recommend that you look over the Appendices in the back of this guide (pp. 33-42), which provide helpful cross-references and background information about various collection materials. You may also wish to read the section titled Béatrice Craig: Biographical Sketch (p.4), which describes Dr. Craig's professional and scholarly careers.

Introduction. The research collection of Béatrice Craig (b. 1949), historian, professor, and author, consists of data on the history of the Upper St. John Valley for the period ca. 1785-1870. In 1992, Béatrice Craig offered to loan the Acadian Archives her collection for the purpose of creating a photocopy version. Additional materials were added the following year.

Access. Most of the items in this collection are available for consultation without restriction. Materials marked restricted in the inventory are not to be consulted without the donor's permission before 1/1/2003.

Professor Craig has retained literary rights to the unpublished materials in her collection. Collection materials may not be published without her permission. Unpublished articles and papers may not be quoted without her permission.

With the permission of the Archivist, and in accordance with existing Archival photocopy policies, researchers may make one copy of the material for their personal use for research purpose. They must quote "Béatrice Craig Research Collection, 1973-1993, MCC:92-00004, Acadian Archives / Archives acadiennes, University of Maine at Fort Kent" as a source if they use it in papers or publications.

Biographical Sketch. Béatrice Craig is an historian. Born in France in 1949, she obtained a certificate for English language instruction from the Université de Lille (France) III in 1974. Prior to writing her M.A. dissertation, she spent a year in Presque Isle, Maine as a teaching assistant at the University of Maine at Presque Isle, where she began research on the Franco-American community of the Upper St. John Valley.

Dr. Craig obtained an M.A. in American Studies from the Université de Lille in 1975; she received her Ph.D. in Canadian and American History from the University of Maine in 1983. Since 1985, she has been employed as a professor of history at the University of Ottawa.

For the last twenty years, the primary focus of Dr. Craig's historical research and scholarship has been the Franco-American community of the Upper St. John valley. Her early work concentrated on kinship and migration; later she began exploring inheritance of property, and most recently she has been studying economics history. In addition to her thesis and dissertation, Dr. Craig has produced numerous journal articles, conference presentations, and book chapters concerning the history of the Upper St. John Valley. She is presently preparing a monograph titled Family, Land and Society in the Upper St. John Valley, 1785-1870.

Scope and Content Notes. This collection consists of Dr. Craig's 1973-1993 scholarship on the Upper Saint John Valley, including publications, working papers, and research data. The collection consists primarily of photocopies of data entry sheets, data print-outs, notes, related archival documents, published and unpublished articles, presentation papers, and theses. In addition, the collection contains a small number of manuscript notes and eight diskettes of electronic data.

These papers offer significant information about the history, demography, and economy of the Upper St. John River Valley of Maine and New Brunswick from the period 1785-1870. Major data compilations include transfer of property, family reconstitutions, and population and agricultural censuses. The collection also includes excerpts and notes from accounts by travellers to the St. John Valley, as well as copies of Professor Craig's conference papers and publications on the Upper St. John River Valley.

1. FTKENT Agriculture et marché au Madawaska, 1799-1850.

The following notes provide background information which may help the researcher understand and make better use of the materials in this collection. They include information gathered from Professor Craig during conversations and correspondence, as well as independent research by Archives director Lisa Ornstein.

SERIES 1: PROPERTY TRANSFER RECONSTITUTIONS. (folders 1-346)

General Information. The data in these files covers the period from 1785-1870. They show when and how much property was acquired over and individual's lifetime, when and how it was transferred, to whom, etc.

Data Sources. Professor Craig gathered data about property transfer from a number of registries. The source for U.S. data was the Aroostook County Registry of Deeds in Fort Kent, Me. (1846+). The sources for Canadian data were the Registry Offices in York County (1785-1834), Carleton County (1832-1850), Victoria County (1850-1873), and Madawaska County (1873+).

Problems. There are problems in attempting an accurate reconstruction of property transfer in the Upper St. John Valley during the period 1785-1870. Prior to the establishment of a Registry of Deeds in Fort Kent, registering deeds involved long and costly travel, and it would appear that many of early settlers either delayed or forewent formally recording these transactions. Throughout the period 1785-1870, the average delay in the recording of a land transaction was three years. Often, the property owners simply waited to record until they were about to sell their land.

Another problem is the accurate identification of lots. Lots are not consistently identified over time. Consequently, about 10% of the transactions cannot be accurately identified.

Definitions for Data Entry Categories. (provided by Dr. Craig 15 august 1994) arrival : applies to immigrant whose date of entry is known rank in family : birth order

lot # : lot number which appears in the ded. "DK" is a reference to the Deane and Kavanaugh report; "SB" used in conjunction with "DK" refers to "south bank;" "NB" refers to "north bank." Craig assigned her own lot numbers for the Deane and Kavanaugh report lots, following the listings and order of the original report: south bank, American section of north bank, south bank till the end, north bank from the falls back to the American settlement.

location : location which appears in the deed (normally the parish of township, but occasionally idiosyncratic)

date acquired : date given in the deed how : refers to the land registry records (e.g., N.B.). Craig does not remember the significance of the number (either created by her or a reference to the registry book entry). S = sale; M = either maintenance or mortgage.

size : size given in the deed price : price given in the deed. In New Brunswick, payment was in pounds, shillings, and pence; in the U. S., payment was in dollars. After 1850, New Brunswickers used the “Halifax pound” which was worth approximately $4.00 U.S.. After 1854, New Brunswickers used either Halifax pounds or Canadian dollars, which were fixed at par with U.S. dollars.

Improvements/
Productivity : disregard heading; contains general remarks

census valuation: disregard heading; contains general remarks date alienated : date which appears in the deed when property was sold, given, exchange, lost, seized, etc.

to whom : acquire of the piece of land

SERIES 3: FAMILY RECONSTITUTION DATA. (folder 355-684)

General Information. The family reconstitution files identify all families who married, had children, were born, or died in the St. John Valley from 1792-1850.

Data Sources. Dr. Craig gathered her data from parish registers kept by the Catholic church for The 1792-1855 period. The registers cover the parishes of St. Basile, New Brunswick (1792-1857), St. Bruno, Maine (1838-55), and Ste-Luce, Maine (1842-58). Craig gathered additional data from census records, when available, for the following historical periods: Maine and New Brunswick (1790-1850), St-Basile and Ste-Luce parishes (1850-55). No data was collected from St. Bruno parish after 1850; data for some outlying parishes extends beyond 1850.

Family Identification Numbers. Dr. Craig assigned a five-digit identification number to each family couple. The first digit provides the following information:

“1” = husband and wife never in Madawaska

“2” = husband and wife both born and married outside Madawaska

“3” = husband and wife born in Madawaska, married at Madawaska

“4” = one spouse born in Madawaska, other born outside Madawaska, married in Madawaska

“5” = husband and wife born and married in Madawaska

Each child receives a seven-digit identification number. The first five digits are the family couple identification number for their parents. The last two digits give the approximate birth order.

SERIES 4: DEMOGRAPHIC DATA SUB-SETS. (folder 685-687)

General information

-Upper St. John Valley Families Presents Before 1800. This file contains all families mentioned in the parishes registers before 1800. Professor Craig refers to these families as “original families”, occasionally abbreviated as “OF.”

-Demographically Complete Families (Upper St. John Valley 1785-1840). A demographically complete family is one in which the wife and husband both survive until wife is past the childbearing age of 45 years.

-Demographically Complete Families (Upper St. John Valley 1785-1840). A demographically incomplete family is one in which the wife dies before the age of 45 years.

SERIES 5: CENSUS DATA. (folder 688-712)

General Information. The first nominal population census (a census which names the inhabitants of each household) for the Upper St. John Valley was done in 1850. The first regional agricultural censuses were conducted in 1850 (United States) and 1861 (New Brunswick).

United States Census.

1850: This census divided the region into three plantations: Madawaska, Hancock, and Van Buren. Since only those farms valued at $300 or more were included in the 1850 Agriculture schedule, the 1850 census cannot be considered complete.

1860: In 1860, small discrepancies between census data in agricultural and population Schedules for Grand Isle, Madawaska, and Van Buren. These discrepancies occurred as a results of people on the border between townships occasionally being listed as residents of the neighboring township in one of the two schedules.

1860: population schedule: In order to save time and space, Dr. Craig listed by name only heads of family, providing summary listings for the number, age, and sex of children.

1870 population schedule: In order to save time and space, Dr. Craig listed by name only heads of family, providing summary listings for the number, age, and sex of children.

New Brunswick Census.

In 1861 and 1871, the geographical region now known as Madawaska County was divided into four civil parishes: Madawaska, St. Francis (St.-François), St. Basil (St-Basile), and St. Léonard (St-Léonard). St-Léonard was further sub-divided into section 1 and section 2.

Prior to Canadian Confederation in 1867, New Brunswick census takers used “NAT” to describe natives of the province of New Brunswick, and “CAN” to describe natives of Quebec or Ontario.

1861 population schedule: Dr. Craig listed by name only heads of family for St. Léonard and Madawaska, providing summary listings for the number, age, and sex of children. She lists names of both parents and children for St-Basile and St-François.

1871: Professor Craig listed by name only heads of family for the population census of 1871, with the exception of St-Basile, which is a complete transcription of schedules 1-6 and 9. She omitted schedule 3 data except for St-Basile and listed schedules 5 and 6 on the same page. She omitted schedules 7 and 8 as the census takers collected no local data for these areas of production.

Census takers established nine schedules each New Brunswick census division:

- 1 - Dénombrement des vivants.
- 2 - Dénombrement des morts.
- 3 - Etablissement publics, propriétés foncières, voitures, instruments d'agriculture.
- 4 - Terres cultivées, produits des champs, plantes et fruits.
- 5 - Animaux, produits animaux, étoffes de ménages et fourrures.
- 6 - Produits des forêts.
- 7 - Pêche
- 8 - Mines et carriers.
- 9 - Industries.

J. A. MacLaughlan Report. A copy of J. A. MacLaughlan's "Report of the Commissioners of Affairs at Madawaska, 1834" (based on an agriculture survey taken the preceding year) completes the series. J. A. MacLaughlan, a veteran of the War of 1812, was appointed as British "Warden of the Disputed Territory" ca. 1828-29. His job was to keep watch over the Madawaska Settlement and to prevent timber depredations. When, in 1833, the crops failed in the Madawaska district, the inhabitants petitioned Fredericton for relief. Before taking action, the New Brunswick government requested a report from MacLaughlan, who had lived in the area for several years, and was likely to be well-informed about local conditions. His report consists of a census of all local families, naming heads of household, indicating numbers of people living with them, listing all the stock owned, how much they had sowed in the spring, how much they had harvested, quality of crops, and average harvest for the past few years. MacLaughlan wrote his report in 1833 and deposited it with the government the following year.

SERIES 6: TRAVELLERS' ACCOUNTS. (folders 713-725)

General Information. These materials are mostly notes about and excerpts from accounts written by visitors to the Upper St. John Valley ca. 1790-1880. For your interest, the Archives staff has prepared biographical sketches of the authors.

Joseph Bouchette (1774-1841). Surveyor and militia and naval officer; b. in Quebec City; d. in Montréal. Bouchette qualified as a surveyor in 1792, but he chose to enlist in the Provincial Marine. In 1804, he was officially appointed Surveyor General. In 1814, Bouchette presented to the House of Assembly his project to produce a large-scale map of Lower Canada accompanied by a topographical dictionary. This work, Description topographique de la province du Bas Canada..., was published in London in 1815. It was the first synthesis of information about the geography of Lower Canada. From 1826-1829, Bouchette collected data of another book, The British Dominions in North America ..., which was published in two volumes in 1832. [Source: Dictionary of Canadian Biography. Toronto: University of Toronto Press. 1966-]

Edward Henry Elwell (1825-1890), journalist and regional historian. In the fall of 1858, he joined a group of editors of the major papers in the state of Maine who traveled to the northern part of the state to promote the area and encourage immigration. Ellwell relied upon the editor of the Maine Evangelist for his comments on Madawaska in Aroostook: with Some Account of the Excursions Thither of the Editors of Maine, in the Years 1858 and 1878, and of the Colony of Swedes, Settled in the Town of New Sweden, Elwell also produced several books about the Portland area and collaborated on a history of Maine.

Peter Fisher (1782-1848), merchant and historian; b. in Staten Island, N.Y.; d. in Fredericton, N.B. Peter Fisher is removed as “the first historian of New Brunswick.” His two summary accounts of provincial life signaled the beginning of an indigenous literary tradition. The work of a son of a loyalist soldier and farmer, his sketches are particularly notable for the insights they allow into the values and aspirations of a second-generation, rank-and-file loyalist settler. His first known work, Sketches of New Brunswick; containing an account of the first settlement of the province, with a brief description of the country, climate, productions &c., was published anonymously “By an Inhabitant of the Province” in 1825. His Sketches was the first comprehensive report on the Province by a permanent resident.

Abraham Gesner (1797-1864), physician and surgeon, geologist, and inventor; b. in Cornwallis Township, N.S.; d. in Halifax, N.S. Inventor of kerosene, an ardent geologist, and a physician, Gesner never achieved financial success but his accomplishments were many and varied. As provincial geologist, he undertook geologist surveys in New Brunswick from 1839-1843. His New Brunswick: With Notes for Emigrants... appeared in 1847. [Source: Dictionary of Canadian Biography. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1966-]

Charles Hallock (1834-1917); b. New York d. 1917; journalist, author, and naturalist. Son of journalist Gerard Hallock, Charles Hallock worked as editor and reporter for several eastern newspapers and nature magazines, and wrote a family genealogy, accounts of travels to Alaska, sportsman’s guides, and nature books. His article “Aroostook & Madawaska” appeared in Harper’s Magazine in 1863. [Source: The New Century Cyclopedia of Names, New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, Inc., n.d.]

Park Holland (1752-1841); revolutionary soldier, Maine surveyor. In 1793, Holland surveyed lands in northern Maine for millionaire speculator and later U.S. senator William Bingham.

James Finley Wier Johnston (1796-1855), chemist, geologist, agronomist, historian. Johnston wrote a number of works, including historical surveys, science textbooks, and studies of agriculture techniques. His Notes on Northern America, first published in 1851, surveys the agriculture, economic, and social histories of North America.

Mgr. Joseph-Octave Plessis (1763-1825), priest of the Roman Catholic Church, archbishop, politician, and author, b. in Montréal; d. in Quebec City. During Plessis` tenure as bishop, his diocese encompassed lower Canada and the Maritimes. His was concerned with the ungovernable size of his diocese and for the Catholics outside of Lower Canada. In 1811, 1812, and 1815 he visited the Catholics of the Maritimes, assessing the religious situation there, preaching, and organizing religious life. In a journal he kept notes on the region`s geography, history, demography, and economics activities. [Source: Dictionary of Canadian Biography. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1966-]

John Francis Sprague (1848-1926); lawyer, publisher and editor; b. Sangerville, Me. 1848, d. 1926. Sprague wrote several Maine regional historical monographs. He include extensive documentary citations in his book, The North Eastern Boundary Controversy and the Aroostook War, from which Dr. Craig excerpted testimony from the 1828 trial of John Baker.

Edmund Ward (1787-1853), printer, newspaperman, author, office holder, and publisher`s agent; b. 1787 in Halifax; d. 1853 in Hamilton, Bermuda. The son of a Connecticut loyalist, Ward was a parliamentary reporter and an advocate of temperance and other social improvements and wrote in a direct, simple journalistic style. In 1840, Ward was appointed assistant emigrant agent for New Brunswick through his friendship with the lieutenant governor, Sir John Harvey, to whom he gratefully dedicated a pamphlet advocating the cultivation of the interior: An Account of the River St. John, with its tributary rivers and lakes, first published in Fredericton in 1841.
