Collection Description

Historical and Biographical Information

The parish of St. Basile in present-day Edmundston was established in 1792 as the mother church for all Acadians, French Canadians, and Catholic Irish of the Upper Saint John Valley, including both sides of the river. In 1842, the community was divided into the United States and Canada. In 1870, all parishioners in Aroostook County became part of the Diocese of Portland, Maine, separated from St. Basile. Church records remained with the original church.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of microfilm reels containing images of the original Saint-Basile parish records for the following years: 1811-1829; 1838-1845; 1857-1869; and 1869-1886.

Arrangement

This collection is made up of four census reels that are dated chronologically.
